It's been 6 years since Katrina. Do people really still need help?

Unfortunately yes. St Bernard Parish was completely flooded during Hurricane Katrina, and every home and building suffered extensive damage. Recovery has been very slow, and even now the population is still less than half of what it was before the disaster.

So how do people sign up for assistance at the Community Center?

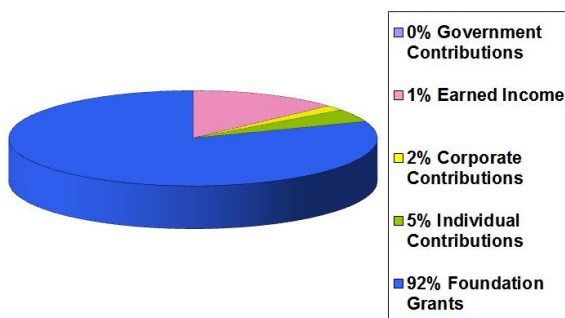

For most services, people can simply come to the Community Center on the days when the specific resources that they need are offered and get help right away. The Food Pantry and Food Stamps, however, require that applicants provide proof of identity, proof of residence and proof of income in order to enroll in these programs.

How much do people pay for services at the Community Center?

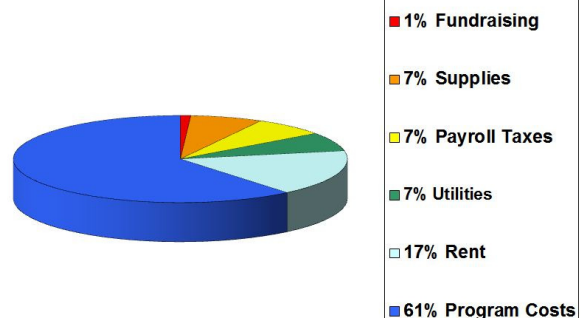

All assistance provided at the Community Center is free.

Then how are these programs and services funded?

Income, 2011 Annual

Expenses, 2011 Annual

What if someone needs a service that isn't available at the Community Center?

In most cases we will be able to refer them to another local agency for assistance. We also have a brochure table at the Community Center entrance that provides information about many additional resources throughout the greater New Orleans area so that clients can easily find the help that they need.
